The streets are too crowded, and the air is too dirty because of all the traffic. Mr Martin, a shopkeeper, said, 'There is too much noise. I can't hear myself think!' Mr Wood, a policeman, said, 'There are also too many parked vehicles. It's difficult to walk along the streets.' He added, 'And there are also too many accidents.' Your heart beats more than one hundred thousand times a day – or around three billion times during an average lifetime. For humans, the normal pulse is 70 heartbeats per minute. Elephants have a slower pulse of twenty seven and for a canary it is a thousand! If all the blood vessels in your body were put end to end, they would reach about sixty thousand miles. Your lungs are made up of about three hundred million tiny air sacs. If they were laid flat, they would cover an area about the size of a tennis court. Around two-thirds of a person's body weight is water. Blood is ninety-two per cent water, and your brain is 75% water. The human head contains 22 bones. While babies are born with over 300 bones, adults only have two hundred and six; many bones join together as people grow up.

By the time you are 70, you will have easily drunk over twelve thousand gallons of water. You blink your eyes over ten million times a year. Your forearm (from inside of elbow to inside of wrist) is the same length as your foot.
